UPCOMING SEMINAR: “IP Law and the Internet”

IPLAC’s Internet Law Committee and Northwestern University School of Law offer an afternoon seminar addressing patent, trademark and copyright law developments relating to the Internet. Panels will provide updates on recent developments in each of these substantive areas.

IPLAC is pleased to announce that the program will feature a keynote address by Commissioner for Patents John Doll. Commissioner Doll is responsible for all aspects of the patent granting process for the United States. Prior to becoming Commissioner for Patents, Mr. Doll served as Deputy Commissioner for Patent Resources and Planning, and as Special Assistant to the Director of the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

Other speakers will include Professor Clint Francis from Northwestern University School of Law and Professor Douglas Lichtman from the University of Chicago School of Law, as well as practitioners.

Following the program, Commissioner Doll and other USPTO representatives will join speakers and attendees for a reception.

When: July 27, 2006, 1:00 pm – 5:00 pm
(reception follows)

Where: Northwestern University School of Law
375 East Chicago Avenue
Chicago, IL 60606

Cost: $25 for non-IPLAC members
$15 for IPLAC members and law students
Refreshments and reception included.
